Telstar Class of 1998 graduates

I DID IT--Shaun Wheeler shouts for joy on receiving his diploma.

By ALISON ALOISIO

Valedictorian Michelle McInnis challenged Telstar High School's Class of 1998 "to speak and care for something other than ourselves," as they move on to their lives after high school.

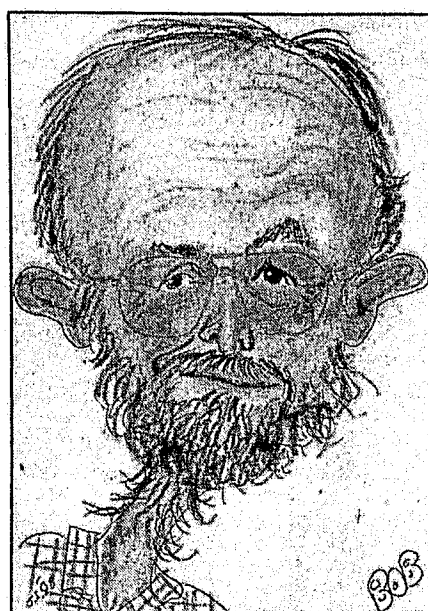

McInnis was joined by salutatorian Jason Mullen and third honors student Martha Grover in addressing a large crowd at Friday's Commencement Exercises.

McInnis thanked her family, friends and teachers for supporting her through her SAD44 schooling. "I'm glad I have people who care about me," she said.

She also urged her fellow-graduates to have a moral purpose in life, and to "avoid selfishness, because it only leads to unhappiness."

Mullen encouraged the graduates to find the right balance among living in the present, considering the future, and looking back at the past as they make their way in the world.

And two familiar faces bid 'Adieu'

Grover, for her part, likened the 65-member class to a caterpillar that had grown inside a safe cocoon built by the school, friends and relatives. With graduation, she said, the time has come for the seniors to, like a butterfly, "fly free."

Six other members of the graduating class also addressed family and friends. In welcoming them to the ceremony, Megan Cole and Kate Nickerson read the Rudyard Kipling poem, "If." And, they told their classmates, "Remember the dreams that you held with you today, and keep them alive -- and keep smiling. Our memories of high school will remain in our hearts forever."

Amber Brooke and Erin Kavanagh offered reflections on the class members' school experiences. Memories included falling off the monkey bars and the rainbow on the Ethel Bisbee School playground, a third grade hike up Table Rock, Ski Day at Sunday River, the Kids for Trees program, and middle school dances "with boys on one side, girls on the other."

In high school, they said, "between bomb scares, ice storms and our

Mead drops plans for chipping plant at site in Hanover

By ALISON ALOISIO

Citing the cost of modifications needed to make a wood-chipping plant acceptable to the Hanover community, Mead Corporation Wednesday dropped plans for the controversial project.

Mill opponents, however, still plan to keep a watchful eye on the future of the 282-acre-site the company purchased for the plant.

The $12 million facility, located off Route 2, would have supplied wood chips to the Rumford mill, and would have employed 35 people. Plans called for Fulghum Fibres, a Georgia firm, to build and operate the plant.

But the proposal met with immediate opposition from some Hanover residents, who worried about truck and mill noise and environmental impacts, as well as possible negative effects on their property valuations.

Mead had agreed to make several modifications to its original plan, such as changing the entrance road and building design to allow for quieter operation. The original proposal also called for powering the mill with electricity, rather than diesel fuel.

Company spokesman Jeff Nevins said Wednesday that Mead has no alternative sites in mind for the plant. "We're going to look for plant B," he said. The company is still interested in obtaining a site west of Rumford.

Nevins also said Mead has made no decision yet on what to do with the property in Hanover. The property is currently set up as a subdivision.

Nevins said Mead was surprised at "the tone that was taken" by some opposed to the mill, specifically "the threats to bring in outside environmental groups, and groups that have had some history of violence."

The paper industry has encountered such opposition else-

Bennett and Barth top ballot in Bethel

By MICHAEL DANIELS

In balloting for municipal officers Tuesday, Don Bennett and Al Barth were elected to fill the two open seats on the Bethel Board of Selectmen.

Bennett received 257 votes and Barth 256, putting them well ahead of the three remaining candidates: David Nivus (104 votes), Robert Everett (98) and Jonathan "Jeremy" Grimm (76).

Stan Howe and David Luxton, the only declared candidates for the two open seats on the Board of Assessors, were elected without write-in opposition. Howe received 325 votes, Luxton 310.

Luxton also won a neck-and-neck write-in contest for one of the two open seats on the SAD44 Board. With 434 voters turning out Tuesday, Luxton received 9 votes. Jill Rundle garnered 8 votes, taking the second seat.

Also receiving votes were John Bayerlein, an incumbent who was not running for another term. He received 7 votes, while Ralph Merrill and Mike Broderick each received 6.

In other local issues decided Tuesday, Andover decided not to further pursue a study of withdrawing from SAD44 (see related story).

Area voters also apparently approved FY'99 budgets for vocational and adult education in the Return of ski train unlikely this year

Despite brighter prospects for Portland-Boston passenger revival

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Things are looking up for the return of passenger rail service to Maine, but don't expect to hear the whistle of the Sunday River ski train anytime soon.

"There's a lot of things that would have to happen before the train could come back in," said American Skiing Company spokesman Skip King this week.

A long-awaited ruling in late May by the federal Surface Transportation Board appears to have removed the largest obstacle to the return of passenger rail: an ongoing dispute between Amtrak and Guilford Industries over liability.

Guilford owns the tracks that would be used by the Boston-to-Portland service, which would be operated by Amtrak, the federal passenger-service provider.

With that dispute nearing resolution, passenger trains are expected to begin rolling into Portland in 1999 or 2000.

But five years ago the trains were expected to start rolling in by 1994, and that expectation led to Sunday River Ski Resort starting its own ski train service between Portland and Bethel.

Last year, after absorbing $750,000 in losses, Sunday River canceled the train.

Waterford native doubles for female lead in 'Horse Whisperer'

DEBRA CHASE

By ALISON ALOISIO

When Waterford native Debra Chase was offered a chance to be the photo double for the female star of the movie, "The Horse Whisperer," she was asked if she could fit into size 5 blue jeans.

"I thought to myself, 'Watch me, I will,'" said Chase, who is the daughter of Don Chase of Bethel.

She fit into the jeans, and into the part. Debra was chosen to do horseback riding and other scenes for actress Kristen Scott Thomas -- and she did them working under the guidance of Robert Redford, the film's director and male star.

Debra lives in Livingston, Mont., in the area where the movie was filmed. She's been there for five years, and currently works in the tack department of a ranch supply store.

She's been around horses her whole life. When she was growing up in Waterford, her family had them. And she's ridden or had a horse of her own ever since. (She graduated from Oxford Hills High School in 1974.)

Says Don, "She's been a horse person ever since she could walk."

How, exactly, did Debra ride her way into a Robert Redford movie? "It was a long series of coincidences," she said in a phone interview Sunday.

The movie is based on a book by Nicholas Evans. It's about a mother and daughter from New York who take their horse to Montana to work with Redford's character, a horse trainer. The daughter and horse had been injured in an accident.

The Redford character, said Debra, is loosely based on a Montana man who teaches horse training. Debra enrolled in and completed one of his clinics.

Then, she heard last spring that the movie was to be filmed in the area. "I wanted to be a part of it," she said. "I heard on the radio there was an open call for non-speaking parts. I thought I might be an extra if I was lucky."

So she submitted a photo and personal information, including height and riding ability, to the movie company.

"Two weeks later, they showed up at my workplace and wanted to know if I would mind if they cut my hair, and lightened it," she said.

She had waist-length, brown hair. In the film, Thomas has very short, reddish hair.

At the same time, they asked her about getting into size 5 jeans. Debra was being considered, they said, as a photo double for the riding scenes.

She was chosen a few days later. "I went to the set and they cut my

Bethel boards cave on curbing Kelley's

After long-time manager threatens not to buy business if parking agreement is enforced

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Last fall they insisted on granite curbing, last week they settled for painted stripes.

The proposed curbing in front of Kelley's Auto Parts on Mechanic Street has disappeared again, this time apparently for good.

At a joint meeting last week, the Bethel Board of Selectmen and Planning Board agreed to forego the curbing.

The decisions were made in response to renewed complaints by store owner Roger Charest and manager Spencer Couture (who said he is considering buying the business).

The two argued that if the curbing were to be placed in front of the business, there would not be adequate parking for its customers.

The curbing had been included in the initial (1993) plans for the reconstruction of Mechanic Street, and in the site plan application submitted the following year for Kelley's expansion.

But the Mechanic Street reconstruction was delayed by funding uncertainties, and when the job was finally completed there was no curbing in front of Kelley's (it had apparently been moved, with a proposed sidewalk, to the other side of the street -- but no one is sure when, or by whom, that decision was made.)

Charest said that in response to that change (and drainage considerations elsewhere on the property) he had little choice but to pave from the front of the building to the street.

But after reviewing the situation in November of last year, the Bethel Board of Selectmen voted unanimously to go ahead, if belatedly, with placing curbing in front of the building.

Charest then reluctantly agreed to a modified parking plan built around the curbing.

A letter at the time from engineer Boyd Snowden of A.E. Hodsdon, the town's consulting engineering firm, said the curbing was being installed "in areas in front of the NAPA store to provide a safe environment for vehicular traffic."

The curbing, however, has yet to go in, and at a Planning Board

Andover voters nix withdrawal study: 139-85

By ALISON ALOISIO

Andover voters Tuesday turned down a proposed study of the feasibility of withdrawing from SAD44. The vote was 139-85.

The question was put on the ballot as the result of a petition circulated earlier this spring. The petition was prompted by parent dissatisfaction stemming from a SAD44 plan to combine some grades at the Andover Elementary School next school year.

One parent who supported a withdrawal study was Sharon Farrington, the mother of three AES students.

She said Wednesday she believes some voters did not clearly understand the withdrawal study process. Some, she said, believed the vote was on actual withdrawal from SAD44, rather than just a study of it.

Farrington speculated another petition drive might take place next year, if Andover's share of the SAD44 budget increases significantly.

The FY '99 share is $426,615. Some residents believe the cost of a stand-alone Andover school system would be significantly greater than that.

Farrington agrees it would probably cost more, but, she said, "it would be well worth it" to have local control over AES.

Selectman Wendy Green said she was pleased with the voter participation. "No matter how it

WE CAN COMPETE

To the Editor:

There's been a lot of buzz around the Bethel area the last few months about the appearance of a new national chain store in Bethel. This chain has been building new stores all over Maine and northern New England and they happen to be in the same business as ours -- retail pharmacy.

We would like to inform your readers and our customers that Preb's Pharmacy and its employees are proud to have served the area over the past several years and plan to continue for many years to come. We wholeheartedly appreciate each and every one of our customers, and we try our best to keep them all happy. The comments and letters of support in recent months have been particularly gratifying to our staff.

In spite of Rite Aid's growth in the state, independently owned pharmacies such as Preb's have been able to compete very well by offering exceptional customer service and fair prices. America's free enterprise system ensures consumers have a choice. Preb's plans on working hard to keep our customers choosing to shop with us. Even though change is inevitable, Bethel's wonderful reputation as a quaint New England village will not be undone. We are proud to be a part of that tradition.

We want to thank all our customers for their loyalty and patronage, and we look forward to serving the Bethel community in the future.

ROTARY CLUB AUCTION

To the Editor:

The Bethel Rotary Club will be holding its annual auction on Saturday, June 27, at Telstar High School. The preview will begin at 5:30 p.m. with the auction following at 6:30 p.m. We would like to take this opportunity to thank the many businesses and individuals in the area who continue to contribute to this effort.

A new twist is being added this year. The Rotary Club will include items from local individuals on a consignment basis. To be included in the auction, the item must have a minimum value of $100. Twenty-five percent of the sale price will go to the Rotary Club with the remaining amount being returned to the seller. A limited number of these items will be accepted for this auction.

In addition, a Flea Market will also be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. that day. Space is available for rent. Last year's addition of the Flea Market proved to be a big success. Space is limited.

For more information on consignment items and/or the Flea Market, please contact me at 824-2041.

As always, donations for the auction are always welcome.

We look forward to seeing everyone on June 27.

NEWRY CONTRA DANCE THANKS

To the Editor:

I want to thank the Recreation Committee and the Town of Newry for making possible the contra dance at the Grange Hall on Friday, June 5. The music provided by the three members of the Scrod Pudding contra dance band -- Jim Joseph, accordion; Pam Weeks, fiddle; and Bill Olson, guitar -- was just right, exuberant and exhilarating, whether one was dancing or listening.

What better way to spend a cool June evening than dancing old-fashioned dances like Lady of the Lake on a near-perfect dance floor with friendly and energetic people of all ages and abilities. Bill Olson doubled as caller, and he called a nice mix of circle mixers, square dances and contra dances. He taught all the dances, and his teaching was clear and easy to follow. Several old-fashioned waltzes were interspersed with the other dances, and two of the waltzes were original creations of Pam Weeks, the fiddle player -- "Sebec Lake Waltz" and "The Trestle Bridge."

I hope this is just one of many such fun evenings.

Insofar as possible, we attempt to publish letters without alteration, but we do reserve the right to edit for length, libel, taste and readability.

We do not knowingly publish letters that have been submitted to other newspapers, or letters to third parties, or letters which endorse products, or letters which are unsigned. These guidelines will be waived, however, when doing so is deemed to be in the community's interest.

In the case of letters which are critical of individuals, businesses, institutions or other identifiable groups, the pertinent text of the letter (but not the name of the writer) will be sent prior to publication to the appropriate party for response. This policy is in the interest of fairness, allowing the criticized party to have their reply published at the same time as the criticism.

LUCKY TO BE ALIVE—Eric Mills, 18, of East Bethel graduated from Telstar High School Friday evening. At about 5 a.m. Sunday morning, he apparently fell asleep driving his 1989 Pontiac Lemans sedan less than a mile from home, and crashed head-on into a tree. He was taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital by Bethel Rescue, then transferred to Central Maine Medical Center, where he has been ever since. Mills' injuries included a broken leg and cuts and bruises. His spleen also had to be removed. Mills may be released this weekend, according to his mother, Debbie. "He's coming back to the Eric we know," she said. Bethel Police Chief Darren Tripp said there was no evidence at all of alcohol or drugs, and speed was not a factor in the accident. Tripp said he was not sure if Mills was wearing a seat belt, but in this case, it probably did not matter, as the car was crushed from the front and pushed into him. In 13 years in law enforcement, said Tripp, "This is the worst collision that didn't result in a fatality that I've seen." He said that being asleep may have helped save Mills, because his body would have been relaxed at the moment of impact.

CHANNEL IV VOLUNTEERS WELCOME

To the Editor:

The Channel IV volunteers hope that the subscribers to cable enjoyed the live broadcast of Telstar Regional High School's graduation. Each year the film crew tries to improve the quality of this much-watched event. This year we used new headsets for communication between the booth and the floor cameras as well as some new wiring. The crew included Gary Inman as producer, Dick Melville, Linwood Hanson and Lainie Cross on cameras, Ray Seames on sound, with Cathy Newell and Andrew Wheeler assisting on setup.

We hope to increase the amount of programming including more interview shows. Volunteers are always needed to produce, film and edit, as well as to work in the studio programming the play system or updating the calendar. Please contact Channel IV at 824-2780 if you are interested.

WAY TO GO, WOODSTOCK

On behalf of the Friends of the Library of Whitman Memorial Library, I want to thank the people of Woodstock and our friends for the extremely successful matching of the Tabitha and Stephen King Foundation grant.

When we were challenged to raise $20,000 in one year, there were not a few who really didn't think our small community would be able to accomplish such a feat. We are proud to report that when the final tally is in, we will have reached nearly $24,000. Way to go, Woodstock and Bryant Pond.

INNOVATIVE-PROGRAM FUNDING

To the Editor:

The Maine Community Foundation's Oxford County Fund is seeking proposals from nonprofit and public organizations that need funding for projects that apply community strengths to help address some of the region's problems.

The next deadline for submitting grants applications is July 15; grants will be awarded at the end of September. The final deadline scheduled in 1998 will be Oct. 1.

The Oxford County Fund seeks proposals in the range of $1,000 to $5,000 that support demonstration projects rather than fund ongoing support. Applicants are encouraged to actively involve people they hope to serve in the project's design and implementation, and to bring together resources in a new or expanded way.

Proposals are reviewed by an advisory committee of local residents. Members of the newly formed Oxford County Advisory Committee include Wendy Penley of Bethel, Wayne Gallant of Rumford, Lucy Nordahl of Bethel, and Elaine Montpelier of Norway.

The Oxford County Fund is one of seven county funds held by the Maine Community Foundation, a statewide, nonprofit community foundation.

For more information on the Maine Community Foundation and the Oxford County Fund, call me at 824-3198 or Elizabeth Banwell at the Maine Community Foundation office at 667-9735. The foundation also has a web site at www.maineccf.org that includes information on the foundation and on how to apply for grants.

The Elephant Parade

By MIKE BROWN

The Democrats held a party in Presque Isle last month and only a few attended. The Republicans held a party last month and there was joy in Augustville where some 1,400 party faithfuls filled the Civic Center auditorium parade, almost three times as many delegates than to the Democratic convention in Arrostook County.

The Republicans were so overwhelmed that they ran out of food before they filled the dinner tickets. Whether the goodly turnout transfers to Republican victories this fall is not certain by any measure of speculation. The R's have been aced out of both houses of the Legislature by Democrats and the executive office by a Democrat masquerading as an independent.

The proceedings of the GOP convention was like sitting in the hot sand of a beach and watching the waves of excitement ebb and flow. How many more videos does it take to watch Joshua Chamberlain's charge at Little Round Top before we get the word that he's a Republican hero and a post Civil War GOP Maine governor.

(Many delegates remarked coyly that the actor playing Chamberlain looked like Angus King.) And by now everybody knows that Jim Longley considered himself a Marine hero in jeopardy of life and limb as a press officer courier during Desert Storm.

But the tides of emotion and convention rose significantly on the last day of the round up with floor speeches by candidates and all the GOP stars from Washington and other alien planets in circulation. The Maine GOP is an interesting anomaly of definite conservative and moderate factions. Perhaps that's what keeps the party in elected legislative minority foxholes -- friendly fire.

But it's fun to tweak and tune the answers. Ex-Gov. Jock McKernan was asked how things were going at his adoptive Crowe Rope these days. Just great he said. That very day a labor relations board had ruled against Crowe for unfair labor practices.

Ex-legislator Lisa Lumbray of Bangor, working in gubernatorial candidate Henry Joy's booth as an "Oh Henry" candy bar dispenser, was asked how she was coming along with her gripe against the Christian Civic League of Maine's financial figures.

Conservatives Lumbray and Joy are harassing the equally conservative League to pony up more budget info which seems to be an errant shot in the political foot.

Lumbray responded with no response.

The big questions, apparently, after the June 9 primary is who's the winner to be as the gubernatorial candidate to take on, apparently, Angus King, Jr. -- Henry Joy, Jim Longley or Leo Martin?

The convention was sort of loosely triad bound in sight and sound. Joy stressed his conservatism and three-term legislative experience. Longley didn't mention his brief congressional experience. But he did Semper Fi rather draggy. And folks finally found out who educator Leo Martin was -- the man who wouldn't work for Governor King.

Whoever becomes the GOP gubernatorial candidate better have plenty of clams stashed in his campaign hod for buying press coverage because Maine's toady mainstream media has been sycophants of Angus King for his entire administration.

The media cannot print King's name unless it is prefixed with such superlatives as "unbeatable," "highest rating in the nation," "polls in the 80's," etc. The media toadies know this because the governor tells them so when he selectively calls them to his office for confidential "background chats." (And all the while stuffing statutory Freedom of Access requests for real information.)

The only truthful polls show that King lost his face and credibility in two statewide referendums -- forestry practices and gay rights.

King is beatable and his aberrant political house of cards can crumble with enough huff and puff on his administrative record. He has increased the state budget over half a billion dollars, conspired with the Democrats to pass twice a one-party state budget disenfranchising nearly half the state Legislature and surrogates to 270,533 Republicans.

And it's entirely plausible that the R's can recapture either the Senate or House. If that happens and King is re-elected, he instantly becomes an ineffectual lame, lame duck because elephants rarely forget their mistreatments.

Selectmen to consider beach issues

WOODSTOCK--Woodstock selectmen last week decided to discontinue providing a portable toilet at the town beach, out of concern that the convenience might encourage more use of the already-crowded beach. But they may rethink the issue next week, after a beach neighbor raised objections. Seasonal resident Tom O'Rourke, who owns property directly across from the beach on Lake Street, thinks the decision is a bad one for both the lake and its users. Sanitation will become a problem again, he said, if the toilet is taken away. Besides, he said, he personally doesn't mind a crowd at the beach. "I want people to be there," he said Monday. The beach usage has been of some concern to town officials in recent years, especially since an incident two years ago when a boy was pinned by an unattended car that rolled onto the beach. Since then, the parking spot where that car was parked has been blocked off. There have been no repeat incidents. Maxfield said the overall beach situation will be discussed again at Tuesday's regular selectmen's meeting.

Scott hired as Newry CEO

NEWRY--Lisa Scott has been hired by selectmen to fill the position of code enforcement officer in Newry. She succeeds Norm Putnam, who recently retired as CEO. Scott, who lives in Hartford, was also recently hired for the same job in Bethel.

Paving plans moving along

NEWRY--Selectmen are gathering estimates for the cost of an overlay coat of pavement on the Sunday River Road from the Sunday River Access Road intersection to the place where the Monkey Brook Road changes to a Sunday River Skiway private road. The skiway plans to repave the remainder of the road, which leads to the Jordan Grand Hotel. By coordinating the paving, said selectman Steve Wight, the town and skiway will end up with a smooth, 24-foot-wide surface all the way to the hotel. The road will consist of two, 10-foot-wide travel lanes and a four-foot-wide bike lane. The town's portion of the cost is roughly estimated at $45,000. The town will also rebuild the bridge across Branch Brook, in the Bear River area of town, at an estimated cost of $2,000. Selectmen are also planning to rebuild the intersection of the Branch Road and Route 26. No estimate of that cost is available yet. The town has more than $80,000 in its road capital improvement account--enough to cover all the work, according to Wight.

Bus video policy gets initial OK

BETHEL--The SAD44 School Board Monday gave first-reading approval to a policy governing the use of video cameras recently purchased for use on the district's bus fleet. The cameras will be used to monitor student behavior on the buses. The policy states that parents/guardians will be notified in writing when the tapes are used as a basis for discipline, and will be given the chance to view the tape. Notice of the use of cameras will be provided annually, and will also be posted on the buses. The board must vote on the policy a second time before it may take effect.

Avoid Mt. Will Trail ice damage

BETHEL--The middle section of the Mt. Will Trail loop is not yet cleared of ice storm damage, and is virtually impassable. Some hikers attempting the whole loop have lost the trail completely. Until advised that the whole loop is cleared, hikers are advised to hike one way and return--either in the North Ledges direction or the South Cliffs direction. Unless there have been very recent blowdowns, the trails to the North Ledges and South Cliffs lookout points are clear of major obstructions.

Farmers' Market gets underway

BETHEL--The Bethel Farmers' Market will begin Saturday morning, June 13, at the Bethel Family Health Center parking lot. Hours are 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Plants, seedlings, herbs, perennials, rhubarb and early vegetables will be available, as well as crafts.

Canoe/kayak race is next week

BETHEL--The second annual Canoe and Kayak Race on the Androscoggin River will take place Saturday, June 20. There will be a racing class and a recreational class, and a long and short category for kayaks. The racing class will paddle a course of 10 miles, while the recreational class will paddle a five-mile course. Both classes will be divided by age into smaller categories. The course will start just upstream of the Route 2 bridge just north of Bethel, and end at Riverside Campground, just below the Route 2 bridge. The race will begin at 11 a.m. Registration is from 9:15 to 10:15 a.m. at Riverside Campground. For more information call Bethel Outdoor Adventures at 836-3607.

Chamber golf classic July 13

BETHEL--The ninth annual Chamber Golf Classic will take place Monday, July 13, at the Bethel Inn & Country Club. The tournament is the premier fundraiser for the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce. Sponsorship opportunities are available to anyone interested in promoting their business. The Chamber will host a continental breakfast before the tournament's 9 a.m. Shotgun start. Silent Auction items will be available for bid during the morning. The 18-hole scramble will conclude about 2 p.m., followed by lunch and an awards ceremony. For more information call 824-2282.

Oxford Hills gets $1 million gift

PARIS--An anonymous donation of $1 million has been made to establish a nonprofit foundation to grant scholarships for SAD17 students. Students must be accepted into an accredited college or post-secondary program. Awards will be based on need, not grades. The announcement of the scholarship was made at the Oxford Hills High School graduation ceremony Saturday evening, by Dr. William Medd, who received the check in the mail at his Norway office. An accompanying letter set out the criteria for the foundation and scholarship awards. Medd will chair the board of what will be the Oxford Hills Scholarship Foundation.

Forests damaged by ice get help

AUGUSTA--The federal government is giving Maine $27 million to help woodlot owners, fire departments and communities restore millions of acres of forests damaged by last winter's ice storm. Residents owning 10 or more acres of timber will be able to get financial help in assessing the damage to their lots and developing a recovery plan. Towns can use the money to clear roads and perform other maintenance, while fire departments will be able to get help identifying fire hazards caused by downed trees. The most heavily damaged area is a wide band extending across central Maine and covering about 2 million to 3 million acres. The federal money is part of an emergency supplemental spending package signed by President Clinton last month. Also approved was money for dairy farmers and maple syrup producers. For more information call 1-877-ICE-TREE.

Turkey season sets record

AUGUSTA--Maine's 1998 turkey hunting season ended with a record harvest of 594 birds, according to the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife. Part of the increase from last year's total of 417 was due to the issuance of a larger number of permits this year. Regional wildlife biologist Gene Dumont said that allowing hunters to kill only male birds has ensured a steady increase and expansion of the turkey population. About one out of four hunters came away with a turkey, some weighing as much as 23 pounds. Next year's season will also be held in May, and will be open to Mainers and out-of-staters who obtain permits in a draw.

From the Bethel Police log:

High-speed turn ends in ditch

On June 5 at 11:39 p.m. police began following a truck traveling north on Route 26 at more than 85 miles per hour. It was swerving heavily. After the officer initiated a vehicle stop, the driver braked hard and attempted to turn onto Chandler Hill Road. As the vehicle turned, it hit the ditch and came up onto two wheels. It jolted out of the ditch and stopped on the soft shoulder of Chandler Hill Road. The operator jumped out of the vehicle and ran into the woods, stumbling as he exited the door. The two passengers remained in the truck. The driver could not be located. Alcohol was found in the vehicle.

Saturday, June 6

At 9:20 p.m. a subject was stopped on the Grover Hill Road for a defective tail light. He was given a field sobriety test and failed it. A breath test was also administered, with results pending. Franklin F. Corriveau, 28, of Gilead, was given a summons for OUI.

At 9:15 p.m. a complainant reported a subject had just entered a parking lot and began squealing his tires. Jonathan McGurn, 22, of Bethel was issued a summons for unnecessary noise of tires. After the officer spoke with him it was discovered his vehicle was not inspected. An additional summons was issued for that offense.

Sunday, June 7

At 12:40 a.m. police responded to a report of a large party on Route 5, involving more than 30 area juveniles, many of whom were under the influence or who had been consuming alcohol or marijuana. Several who ran off into the woods were tracked down and identified. Alcohol and marijuana were confiscated and a summons issued to one area juvenile for possession of a usable amount of marijuana. Sober drivers were located and all subjects allowed to leave the scene.

Monday, June 8

At 12:25 p.m. two juveniles were observed walking down Railroad Street smoking cigarettes. They were stopped and summonsed. A partial pack of cigarettes was confiscated from one juvenile, and lighters from both.

Election

School of Applied Technology. At press time, results were still not available from five towns. The available totals stood at 2,078 in favor of the vocational budget and 838 opposed, and for adult ed, 1,226 in favor and 969 opposed. The fate of a proposed new hospitality program (with a price tag of $48,940) was still too close to call. Region 9 director Dewaine Craig said Wednesday. The totals for available tallies were 1,498 in favor, 1,405 opposed.

In statewide issues, voters here followed the pattern of voters elsewhere--turning out in small numbers, passing the three proposed bond issues, and nominating Democrat Thomas Connolly and Republican James Longley Jr. to contend for the governorship with incumbent Angus King in November.

Business training grants available: Oxford and Androscoggin County businesses are eligible for the Business Based Training Grant Program. The program has $360,000 available through the U.S. Department of Commerce's Economic Development Administration and the Maine Department of Economic and Community Development. These funds are available to businesses in the two counties on a first come, first serve basis through application to the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments.

Linda Wood, AVCOG Economic Development Specialist and grant administrator, told to the monthly community leaders' breakfast: "It is an exciting opportunity for the counties to have another chance at a training program that was very successful in the early 1990s. It is timely now because it aids businesses in modernizing and becoming competitive for future growth."

The program is to provide a flexible source of financing for businesses interested in upgrading the skills of current or new employees. It is not intended to fund routine basic training for companies but is meant to expand opportunities such as training for new equipment, machinery, or international certification.

The training grant is intended to increase a company's ability to compete globally and stimulate private sector development. The grant program can be used for trainer wages and travel expenses, training software and program materials, and employee tuition fees.

Although manufacturers are targeted for these grant funds, any size or type of business is eligible, such as calling centers or businesses developing marketing through the Internet. There is no criteria on the minimum number of jobs created or retained, but 51 percent of those individuals that receive training must be of low-moderate income at the time of training. Up to $3,000 per trainee is available on a 50/50 matching split of training costs with the business.

For more information and grant applications, contact Linda Wood at AVCOG (783-9186) or Donald Murphy at the Bethel Town Office (824-2669).

THE CLASS OF 1998

obvious driving disabilities, we seem to have made it through. Let's grab on to the future -- our diplomas -- and run."
In bidding farewell, Amanda Jordan and Eben Smith said that graduating is "taking steps reminiscent of our first trip to kindergarten. Stepping out into the world is like getting onto a school bus for the first time."
Kelly Scotti, chair of the SAD44 Board of Directors, offered the graduates congratulatory remarks on behalf of the board, and Supt.

Kent Rosberg certified the graduates.
Principal Ted Davis presented the graduates with their diplomas. In continuing a tradition, each graduate handed Davis a small item in return for the diploma. This year's choice -- 65 puzzle pieces, one for each graduate, that made up a class photo when put together.
Rev. Richard Mowery opened and closed the Commencement. He asked the graduates to be grateful for the help and support they have received through the years from teachers, parents and friends. And, he told them, "the more you show appreciation, the more you'll be appreciated; and the more you are appreciated, the more fulfilled and happy you will be in life."

He closed by praying to God to strengthen the graduates, as well as give them wisdom and a sense of responsibility.
"Pomp and Circumstance" was performed by pianist Philip House. Class marshals were Neil Thurlow and Toni Vacca.

WIND, COLD AND RAIN did not deter Telstar High School baseball fans from turning out last week to support the Rebels in their playoff games. While Telstar defeated Winthrop, 12-11, in the quarterfinal matchup, the Rebels fell to Madison in 10 innings, 3-1, in the semifinal. Fans bundled up against the wind

Mead's plan for Hanover A Social Tragedy and an Environmental Disaster

Mead Paper Co. wants to move their wood yard and wood processing facility from Rumford to Hanover, and install in Hanover one of the largest chip mills ever built! Then Mead avoids all responsibility by leasing the facility to another company to be operated by non-union labor!

The proposed site is approximately fifteen hundred feet (1465') from Hanover Village and a little over one half (1/2) mile to Howard Pond.

Howard Pond camp owners tax money has supported the town of Hanover for a lot of years!

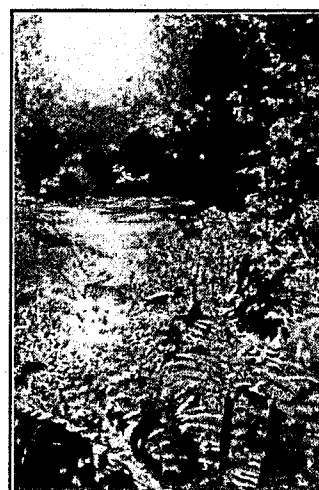

They have a right to expect the town to fight for a continuation of the peace and enjoyment of their property.

Hanover is a small town approximately 3,700 acres and is just not the proper place for a mill of this type and size. While there would be some financial advantage to the town for a few years, most of the tax payers live in town because they love the quiet town just as it is and realize that the chip plant would destroy the quality that makes this town such a wonderful place to live.

Hanover citizens and Howard Pond tax payers make up a remarkable group from all walks of life and includes authors, environmental lawyers, and one of the best public relations men in corporate America.

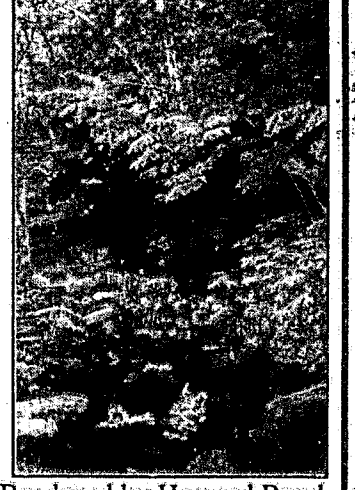

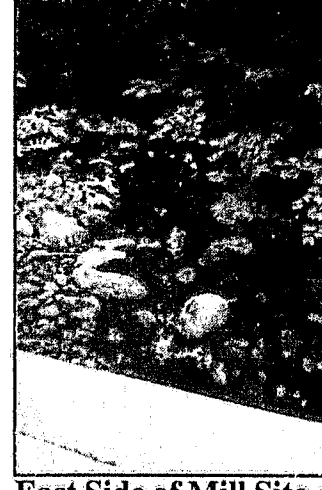

Those of us (150 persons) who oppose Mead's invasion of Hanover wish to apologize for the good manners of our town officials, we see nothing good about this project or do we believe any of your propaganda in regard to noise, traffic or lights. We may be just getting organized, but we will guarantee, with the help of every environmental group in America, that you and your image in the world will come to know us well. Mead is showing a lack of compassionate judgment in their choice of a mill site, why not move to a more suitable location and save us all a lot of time, work and money.

Paid for by the Samuel T. Brown Trust.

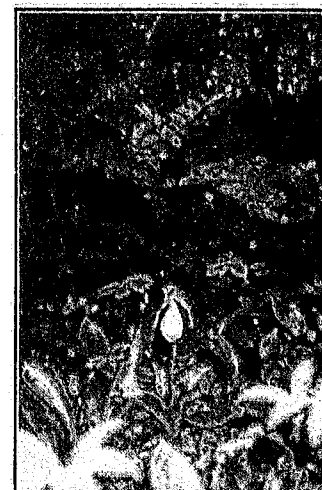

Wetlands West Area of Mill Site

This pretty little wetland area of ponds and swamps is fed by ice cold springs in the mill site. These wetlands, even in a dry time, always have a good water level and serve as a nesting area for black ducks and a home for muskrats, eastern box turtles and the now hard to find black racer snake.

East Side of Mill Site - Bordered by Howard Pond Stream, one of the cleanest trout brooks left in the State of Maine.

The whole land area of the proposed mill site is a paradise of rare Lady Slippers and other beautiful wild flowers.

Pulpwood mill yards in the spring and wet fall weather become a mess of slime even if black-topped and the storm run-off so called is sure to affect both of these precious water systems. There is no legal way the D.E.P. can allow a permit for the exploitation of this property. We will be watching for any talk of a trade off (cleaning up some other area already ruined) for the sake of ruining this spot and we will be watching for any "arm twisting" by the governor or other politicians.

hair short. They were very meticulous in matching the color," she said.

Redford: "Kind and fair"

Debra worked with director Redford as he set up various riding scenes.

She was nervous, she said, as she waited outside his trailer to meet him for the first time. "I was wearing one cowboy boot, and one running shoe, because Wardrobe wanted him to see different options. When it was time to go in, he said, 'Hi, come on in,'" said Debra.

From that point on, she felt comfortable with him. "He was wonderfully clear (in his directions) and kind. He was very fair," she said. Rather than the stereotypical tyrant of a Hollywood director, said Debra, Redford was, "the absolute opposite of that. One time he wanted me to do something different on the horse. He said, 'Would you do me a favor?'"

Debra worked with the movie crew for five months. She was impressed, she said, with the detail taken in filming scenes. Several takes would be done to try different lighting and angles, for instance.

She appeared in a long scene in which Redford's and Thomas' characters go riding across fields with hay bales in the background. Some of the shots are close, from the rear, while others were shot from a helicopter.

She also appears in a backlit scene in which the characters ride across a creek, with the water splashing around the horses.

In another capacity, she stood in for Thomas in the film's horseless carriage -- she drove a sport utility vehicle pulling a horse trailer.

Debra's foot was even the star of one scene. In a porch conversation between Redford and Thomas, Thomas' character nervously moved her foot back and forth. A close-up shot of the foot and lower leg was included.

"That was my foot," said Debra. She was also helped plan and try out some action scenes in which Thomas herself would appear.

In one, for instance, the actress was to fall over a calf during a branding operation, so Debra took several experimental tumbles.

"I was the 'fall girl,'" she said.

A kiss from a big star

Outside of the movie scenes, a high point for Debra was getting a kiss from one of the stars.

No, it wasn't Redford.

She asked the trainer of High Tower, one of the horses who played the horse in the film, if she could have his "autograph."

The trainer gave the horse a signal -- and he came over to Debra, curled up his lip, and kissed her.

Besides getting smooches from equines, Chase said she also thoroughly enjoyed spending time with the humans in the cast and crew.

"It was such a treat to spend the summer with creative people," she said. "If the opportunity came, I'd do it again."

She was asked if she had been a Robert Redford fan prior to working with him.

Yes, she said, beginning more than 20 years ago, when she saw him in "The Great Waldo Pepper."

"I had been a fan of people like David Cassidy, in 'The Partridge Family,'" she said. "But after that (seeing Redford), my interest turned from boys to men."

Don Chase and his wife, Beverly have seen "The Horse Whisperer," which is playing now at the Casablanca.

"It's a great film, and we highly recommend it," he said. "Of course, there may be some degree of partiality."

with Mead's decision. "It verifies our position that it wasn't the right site," she said. "I understand Mead's need for a facility, and I wish them the best in finding an alternative site."

The River Valley group, she said, will continue to be interested in the future of the site, and will seek to get ordinances in place to deal with any future development in town. "This showed how vulnerable Hanover was, with no zoning or ordinances," she said.

Planning Board member Barbara Gross, said she thought the project would have been good for Hanover, because of the taxes the company would have paid. She said she was surprised by Mead's decision.

drop the plan: "It's a wonderful victory for a little town. The cards were stacked against us, with no zoning in town, and town officials saying we were going to get it whether we wanted it or not. I'm happy that we licked them, but I'm sorry if people's feelings are hurt. I hope we can come together as a close-knit town again."

Another opponent, Deirdre O'Callaghan, was involved with a group known as the River Valley Voice of Reason, which has about 70 to 80 unofficial members. The group did not contact environmental organizations, she said. "We felt our group didn't need outside help," said O'Callaghan.

O'Callaghan said she was pleased where, Nevins said, "but we were hoping it would be different here."

Mead, he said, tried to stick to the issues in dealing with residents.

"A wonderful victory"

Opponent Bob Brown said he had been involved in contacting environmental groups including the Audubon Society and the Dogwood Alliance. He said such groups were planning to feature the plans for the plant in their publications.

He said he knew of no contact with groups that used violence.

Brown also said there had been an effort to enlist company stockholders. "They threatened to sell their stock," he said.

Said Brown of Mead's decision to

Curbing

meeting on May 26, Couture argued heatedly that it should not go in at all.

It was on the advice of a "town engineer," Couture said, that the original plan for parking on the north side of the building was changed. (The engineer in question was apparently not Snowden.)

Without that parking, he and Charest have argued, the business needs to be able to use all the space in front of the building -- without sacrificing any to curbing or additional greenspace.

Couture and Charest have never been able to identify who the "town engineer" was -- and thus corroborate the substance of the conversation regarding the north-side parking -- but Couture implied the Planning Board might know who the engineer was, and not be telling. During the course of a heated debate with Couture at the May 26 meeting, Planning Board Chairman Frank Vogt asked: "You don't think the Planning Board really knows who it is and is keeping it a secret?"

"It could be," Couture replied.

Couture, who has managed Kelley's since 1975, also told the board the business was for sale, but he would not consider buying it if the November agreement was enforced.

"The building is going up for sale," he said. "I am not going to invest my life savings in that building with three parking spaces."

Last week the matter went back to the selectmen, at a joint meeting with the Planning Board and with Charest and Couture.

Charest presented a new amendment to the business's site plan, this version calling for the elimination of the curbing and the narrow grass strip that was to have been installed behind it.

In their place, there would be lines painted on the pavement to indicate six diagonal parking spaces.

The selectmen, with little comment and without a formal vote, then agreed to eliminate the curbing, and the Planning Board voted to accept the amendment.

The Planning Board vote came despite a general board policy that does not encourage parking spaces that require drivers to back out directly into a traveled way.

Selectmen Chair Dutch Dresser said he felt that in this case the exception was called for -- in view of the miscommunication and confusion which led to the present situation.

But, he said: "In practice this is probably a lousy idea, and the idea of limited access to parking on busy streets is probably a good idea."

Ski train

it were great, but here we're sitting four years out into the process and we still don't have a train running up from Boston," said Les Otten, ASC chairman and chief executive officer.

Last week Otten said in Portland that he canceled the ski train primarily because the long-awaited Boston-to-Portland service never materialized, and because the Portland market was not large enough to support it.

But, he said, the train is not dead forever: "We are going to get back in the business of the ski train and try to find an opportunity to link with Portland."

But Otten set no timetable, and King cautioned this week against premature expectations for the return of the ski train -- and with that return the possibility of Bethel area riders using the train for trips to Boston and beyond.

"We never lost our interest in the train," King said. For example, he noted, the Ethan Allen Express in Vermont -- which is used heavily by skiers at ASC resorts there -- has been so successful that Amtrak has decided to add another daily run.

But in Maine, King said, "there's still so much that has to happen in order for it to be viable. Just getting rail travel reestablished in Maine is going to be the first thing."

So far, thinking about the return of passenger rail service to Maine has been largely a north-south proposition, but Otten also wants to explore rail service to Montreal and other cities both inside and outside of Maine.

He has also backed studying the feasibility of high-speed train service across northern New England, linking Portland with Burlington, Vt. Such a train would run on existing rail lines and rights of way, but would require significant track upgrades, he said.

By using existing lines, transportation across northern New England could be improved with minimal damage to the environment, he said. A group that includes ASC and the Vermont Natural Resources Council is searching a high-speed rail project and its social, environmental and economic benefits and impacts in Vermont, he said.

King said interest in east-west train service stems in large part from the same concerns driving the study of a possible east-west highway across northern New England.

"What we are saying is if you want to do a highway study, that's fine, but let's make sure we look at the alternatives as well."

Andover.

turned out, I'm glad to see those numbers," she said.

Green estimated about one-third of the registered voters came to the polls.

She said she was not surprised at the results. "I did kind of think it would go this way," she said. "I think the bottom concern was tax dollars."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eichel of Worcester, Mass., are at the Wentzell cottage for the summer.

Beware of the "ticks" -- they seem to be prolific this year.

I spent last weekend with the Bean-Turner family in Otisfield. Friday evening, we attended the Special Graduation at Edward Little High School in Auburn. My granddaughter, Sheri Swan, was a member of the graduating class. She received some awards along with her certificate. Congratulations, Sheri.

This windy weather helps keep the bugs away, but I wish it wasn't quite so cold.

Things turn out best for the people who make the best of the way things turn out.

A garden is a thing of beauty, and a job forever.

Congratulations to the Telstar and Gould Academy graduating classes.

JUNE

1998

East Bethel

by Nancy Mercer
Alder River Grange will have a meeting on June 12 at the Hall at 7:30 p.m. Roger and Louise Twitchell's grandson from West Virginia visited recently. He is a white-water rafting guide in West Virginia.

Jack and Lucy Nordahl were camping in the Rangeley Lakes area for two days a couple weeks ago. Their daughter and children from Groton, Mass., visited from May 29 to June 1.

Roger and Louise Twitchell attended the Woodstock/Greenwood Senior Citizens meeting at Bryant Pond on June 4.

Lucy Nordahl went canoeing with the Mahosuc Land Trust on the Androscoggin River on June 7. The next canoe trip will be July 3 and 4. Anyone can go canoeing with the group.

Rodney Howe is doing very well. His cancer is now in remission.

Rudi Honkala saw a hen turkey and four chicks crossing the road near Jim Rose's home.

Ryan Bernier and Shila McCall of Shaw A.F.B., S.C., came on June 5 to visit Andre Bernier. Ryan had to return on June 7. Shila will be here for two weeks.

Andre and Flossie Bernier, Paul and Charlotte Kimball and Ryan Bernier and Shila McCall attended Chad and Nikki Pelletier's wedding on June 6 at Somersville, N.H.

Jerry Bernier called Andre and Flossie Bernier's on June 4 from Iceland, one of his ports of call on the cruise to Europe and Russia.

Ryan Bernier will return in a week for his wedding.

The blustery, wild, unseasonable weather began early in the week and continued through the weekend. At 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 3rd, there was snow, sleet and hail reported. The snow covered the skylights and the roof of the car. No one was thrilled. Thursday, the waves on the lake were three feet high, which resulted in much activity securing docks and boats. George Hamel moved his car 10 minutes before a tall spruce fell on the same spot. Although the lupine are at peak bloom, it is so cold and dark that it is difficult to appreciate their beauty.

Birds reported this week were a male redstart by Ginny Williamson, and Joy Yarnell has two male indigo buntings to complement her beautiful garden. She also has seen a female rose breasted grosbeak at her feeder.

In 1898, 100 years ago, the village of Bethel voted to install electric lights on their streets. In 1998, Central Maine Power installed street lights on Back Street. We don't work as fast above the North. There are some people who don't approve because it changed the rural nature of the road. The year-round residents think it is wonderful. They are the people who may slide off the road in the dead of winter and have to ford the road in snow and ice. Progress, while slow, eventually happens for the common good.

Richard LeComte experienced this week's moose encounter just below Brooks Hill. A large bull darted out of the woods on Route 26 and fell in front of Richard's truck. He was a humungous creature with a massive rack encased in velvet. It is hard to say who was more distressed, the moose or the man. I think it was 50-50. After a few minutes the moose got up and ambled into the woods.

Marcie Lavalley, recent graduate of Gould Academy, has a summer job painting with Grandpa Lewis Sargent. She is doing a great job.

Friday, I attended a wonderful dance recital at Portland City Hall Auditorium. Carolyn Hill-Taylor and her brother, Newt Curtis, were participants. Let it be noted that they are no spring chickens. However, the troop had many dancers over 50 years old. They displayed energy hard to believe doing Hip Hop, jazz, tap and ballet. The grand finale was a wild 1950s number with poodle skirts and black leather jackets. They brought the house down with applause.

Margie Yarnell-Ruell visited with her parents this week. She was a regular handyman hanging shutters and mowing lawns.

Mason Township

Some things happened last weekend to bring "pet peeves" to mind. There are several little things that tweak my jaws just a little. For instance, I hate it when the phone rings, and when I answer, someone on the other end asks, "Who is this?" Who did they expect when they dialed my number? I usually respond, "Who is asking?" and "Who did you want to talk to?"

Another "pet peeve" of mine is the driver who insists on following right on my rear bumper. I don't like the idea of "wearing" his front hood ornament, if I have to stop quickly. I usually slow down and pull over to let the tailgater pass. If he doesn't pass then, I really get peeved.

I also get irritated by those people who post their land and then ask if they can drive their off-road vehicles on your land. If you say "No," they usually get upset with you for being so narrow minded.

I also hate those telephone solicitations, which invariably arrive just as you begin your evening meal. I have eliminated most of those by telling the caller that "I do not respond to telephone solicitations. If you want something from me, put it in a letter, and I will consider it."

It bothers me when a vehicle passes and then slows down as soon as it gets in front of me.

How about those car salesmen who either don't know anything about a vehicle's features, or they tell you about some "new manufacturing technique" that you know is nonsense. Like the guy who tried to convince me that his company only used "new steel," which didn't rust like steel made from recycled scrap steel.

I really get "torqued" when someone dumps a pickup load of household garbage on my property, especially when I see their mail goes to a Waterford box number, which means they drove right past the dump on Route 5 to get it here.

Then, there are the great hunters who shoot game and just leave it to rot or be carried off by coyotes. I have found dead partridges shot and left on my property, and I know of at least one moose shot and left dead and another who was shot and left walking around wounded in the Mason/Bethel area, before the area was opened to moose hunting.

Otherwise, things have been pretty quiet in Mason lately, made more so by the absence of my "big sister" who is in the Midwest, visiting her son Skip and grandsons and two great-granddaughters. While away, she will (has) attend(ed) grandson Scott's wedding and grandson Matthew's graduation from high school. She should be back home by the time this goes to press. While she was gone, Mona and I picked up a computer desk at Wal-Mart and assembled it for her, so she should be surprised by that. It was also probably easier to get the desk assembled without any additional supervision.

Closer to home, Mason residents Martha Grover and Joshua Stackhouse both graduated from Telstar High School. Martha plans to major in architecture at Bennington College beginning in the fall. Joshua plans to study integrated manufacturing at Southern Maine Technical College this fall, also.

Mona and I also took our camper to Wild River for the last weekend in May; it was sort of a "shakedown" trip, to see if we had everything we needed while still near enough home to go and get forgotten items. We enjoyed the solitude there, but not the feeding of the black flies and mosquitoes. I think those little suckers have developed a fondness for "Off."

In other news, I recently got an "E-Mail" from one of my old Air Force buddies. The subject was "The Darwin Awards." Darwin Awards are (by definition) granted posthumously and bestowed on "the remains of" that individual, who through single-minded self-sacrifice, has done the most to remove undesirable elements from the Human gene pool.

One Darwin winner: (San Jose Mercury News) An unidentified man, holding a shotgun by the barrel and using it like a club to break a former girlfriend's windshield, accidentally shot himself to death when the gun discharged, blowing a hole in his gut.

Another winner: The man who found out moments before making a 300 MPH dent in an Arizona cliff that the JATO (jet assist takeoff bottles used by some military aircraft to reduce takeoff distance) unit he'd strapped to his car could not be turned off once it was turned on.

I write this with the sound of sanders glaring in the background. The old homestead is being sanded and then painted. It should look great when it's done, but for now it is unsettling. I'm not really complaining, because it's great to have the house painted, at last, just not the start of a nice, quiet Monday.

Guess I was right about frosts. We had several this past week. Fortunately, I didn't lose anything from my garden, but, then, I didn't have anything to lose. I mostly plant frost-hardy veggies anyway. Being nightshade allergic, I don't plant tomatoes or peppers. My spinach, lettuce, etc., can handle the frost. And if my lone zucchini plant is bothered, I can always replant it. I didn't hear frost warnings for tonight, but I'm not going to put my plants in the ground until after the full moon -- Full moon in June.

Congratulations to Newry's graduates from Telstar and/or Gould. High school is a real milestone, even though it might not feel like it, yet. I have had many a student who wished that they had graduated from high school instead of dropping out and having to go back while they had a job and a family to maintain. So, give yourselves a pat on the back. Good luck in whatever you do.

Friday was the Newry Recreation Committee's potluck/contra dance social. At first, we thought there wasn't going to be anyone there, but soon they trickled in and filled the hall. It was great to see the different faces and ages, etc. There were folks from Newry, Bethel, and a contingent from Andover. A group of Outward Bounders, fresh out of staff training were there. Also present was the newest Sun/Journal correspondent, Joyce White. Joyce is hoping to get a story published about the event. By the time you read this, she probably has. In any case, a great time was had by all.

Friday or Saturday, I went out to take Tasha on her run and she was busy alerting in the direction of the field. I took a good look, and there were two moose there, what appeared to be a mother and a yearling. The mother took off across the road -- not even minutes ahead of a car -- and the young one ran back into the woods. Drivers beware -- if there is one moose crossing this road, there will be others. Slow Down.

It was great to see the moose. I haven't seen one in the field for several years. Haven't even seen hoof prints in the garden in recent years. The bugs must be bringing them out. I just wish I had the camera.

Saturday, I also was privileged to see one of Linda's ducks and her expanded brood of ducklings. They were quite cunning. The duck had inherited all the ducklings after her sister had been killed by a neighbor's dog. Glad that wasn't Tasha.

Sunday, we ventured over to the Newry Clean-Up Day and dropped off a tire. Jim had to check the place out, and like all good pack rats, we came home with more than we went with. I think Newry should have a swap day before the clean-up day. Maybe that is something the Recreation Committee would take on. There were many treasures there that did not deserve to be crushed -- bikes, mowers, etc. -- that just needed repair. How about it Rec. Committee?

I also went to the land on Sunday. Jim's been working there, steadily, to get a camp closed in before too much longer. It is barely a frame, now, but is looking good. Tasha and I went for a walk; to let him do some work, but the rain did not cooperate. It was good to see what he's been working so hard on these past two weeks.

That is about all I can stand, listening to the racket outside. Hope everyone has a great week. I hear the sun will be out before long. I don't mind the rain, it's this cold gray that drives me nuts -- doesn't do much for arthritis, either.

The service on the 21st will be the last of the spring series of services. They will begin again in the fall.

Thirty-two members and two guests of the Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens traveled to Turner for dinner on Thursday, June 4.

Robert and Mary Billings opened the Historical Society museum on Saturday. A friend of Curator Larry Billings from northern Maine visited him and toured the museum. He was in Rumford promoting Acadian Heritage. The society is a vital part of the community. It helps define Woodstock's identity and adds distinction to our town. You can join and contribute to the society's activities.

Here I am trying to get back into the swing of things. After six weeks of being pampered, it takes a while. I find that one could easily get used to the pampering routine, but it's not good for one on a long-term basis. That's so true of many things one enjoys. Moderation in all things seems to be the order of the day.

I thought I'd just ignore the fact I had an automobile accident resulting in a ruptured spleen, but I can't. I found it probably the most embarrassing, humiliating, humbling experience of my life. All the time it was happening I kept expecting that stupid car to stop. Accidents happen to other people -- not to me. How's that for ego? Then there is the loss of the car which should have had a lot of miles left. And, of course, there are the "if only's," such as "if only I'd stayed home that night" and "if only that line of cars whose lights blinded me had been two minutes later making that turn." But, also, that doesn't change the picture. I guess I should be and am, of course, thankful nobody got killed. Certainly my advice on the subject of accidents is "Don't have them, they are definitely not a fun experience." But as my wise daughter said, "The trouble with accidents is that you don't plan them -- that's what makes them accidents."

One thing that did come out of the accident was the knowledge that this area has great ambulance service and Stephens Memorial has a wealth of kind, caring people who keep everything running smoothly. I was very impressed with a nurse who sat by the bedside of my roommate one night when that dear lady of almost 90 was having a bad night. She was afraid of being left alone, so the nurse never left until she fell asleep. That is going the extra mile. And, as a TV show once said, "There are a million stories in the naked city. This has been one of them." And there may be more from time to time.

Much to our surprise we have three mother ducks with babies coming to our pond cum swamp. One has five babies, one has about 11 and another had 15. Andy says he thinks the third one was one of the other mothers who was baby-sitting. I've never heard of one doing that, but who knows. It seems rather early to be bringing out babies, but maybe not. Certainly they are there. When they first hatch and follow Mom they are wedged so tightly together they look like one piece of floating debris. As they get a bit older they sort of go by twos in a line. Give them a few days and they boldly dart here and there, then paddle madly to keep up. Cute.

The Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary met Monday with four members present, Denise Swan, Maggie Ring, Mary Stone and Lorraine Larson. The Fire Department planned a training burn Sunday, the 31st, and wanted the auxiliary to provide some food for early morning and lunch. Muffins and donuts were provided for the first request and sandwiches for lunch. Of course they kept the coffeepot full also.

Debbie and Owen Brown were here the other evening and brought us some fish. One pickerel measured 15 inches from nose to tail. He alone provided one meal. Other visitors here recently were Pastors John and Debbie Grant, Mary Smith and Carolyn Colby, Gerry and Joe Shimamura were here a couple weeks ago.

Congratulations to all the area graduates. I know Brent Lake, Hana Seames, Jack Swick and Rebecca Howe who all graduated and I'm sure there are others I know.

Crystal Lake is home recuperating from an operation she had at Stephens Memorial Hospital. We all wish her a speedy and uneventful recovery.

Call to Worship at the Newry Community Church was held on Sunday, May 31, at 9 a.m. with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the altar and daughter Nancy at the organ. Prelude by Jay Hanscom; the Message of the Day was, "The Comforter Comes" from Acts 2:21 "And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the Lord, shall be saved;" a special by Gil Seeley, "A Swarm of Bees worth having, Be Honest, Be Holy, and pure, Be Christianlike, and you will be secure," etc.

The Windy Valleys Sno-Mobile Club met Tuesday night, June 2, at 7 p.m. at the HUT, with Owen Wright presiding. Secretary Sylvia Harrington read the notes of the last meeting and took new ones during the meeting. Treasurer Bob Lowell brought the finances up to date. Trail Master Leon Dunn reported on the trails. M.S.A. Director/Alternate Sylvia and Bill Wight made their report of the 337th Director's meeting of May 19 held at Jeff's Catering, Brewer. There was discussion on a possible yard sale sometime in the fall. Next meeting will be July 7 at the HUT with a hot dog cookout at 6 p.m.

Karlene Bachelder, Gil Seeley and Eleanor Davis were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford one day last week to bowl for fun. On the overall scores Karlene was high on both the singles and triples. On the first string she beat Gil by six pins. On the second string she beat Gil by seven pins and on the third string she beat Gil by six pins. She had five spares, Gil three spares and Eleanor two spares.

This year's Alumni Banquet was again a huge success. Seating was filled to capacity and all enjoyed this annual reunion.

Remember to reserve your tickets for the Noel "Paul" Stookey performance to be held at the Andover Town Hall on June 19. Proceeds will benefit the Andover Alumni Association. Tickets are $10. Contact the Alumni Association.

The Andover Water District annual meeting will be on June 11 at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Charlotte Hayes was in town for the alumni festivities. She stayed with her brother, Freeman Farrington.

Steve Hall of Conyers, Ga., was also in town for the Alumni Banquet. He escorted his Aunt Florence "Fonnie" Hall to the banquet. Fonnie is a former Andover teacher and has near perfect attendance at the banquets.

Condolences are extended to the Roberta Learned family. Services were held on Friday at the Andover Congregational Church with Jane Rich officiating.

Congratulations are extended to Richard McLean II and Miranda Cobb who were united in marriage on Saturday, May 30, on the Town Common. Richard is the son of Richard and Kathy McLean of East Andover and Miranda is the granddaughter of Laura Hutchins, also of East Andover.

Tanguays Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Arthur and Arlene Tanguay of 8 Shady Drive, Gorham, N.H., were honored by their three children at a 50th wedding anniversary celebration at the Birches Restaurant in Gorham on Saturday, May 2.

The room was decorated by daughter-in-law Janet Tanguay. Gold 50th anniversary favors were crafted by daughter Donna Folsom for each guest.

Their son, Donald Tanguay, said the blessing before the buffet was enjoyed by those present.

A group of special songs were sung by daughter-in-law Janet Tanguay and grandson Jediah Tanguay. Another grandson, Ben Tanguay, recited a poem he composed for his grandparents.

Debra Folsom introduced the six grandchildren (Craig, Tia and Cody Martin and Jediah, Ben and Hayley Tanguay) and two great-grandchildren (Lynde and Sara Folsom) as they each presented the couple with a long-stemmed rose.

Additional music was provided by friends Scott and Kelly Loring, Wayne and Sandi Yacek and Crystal Hanson.

A special blessing for their marriage was given by Pastor Ron Korzeniewski Jr. of the Berlin-Gorham Assembly of God Church.

A photo collection and video of their last 50 years together was on display. A special "Remembrance Album" was given to the couple by over 120 friends and relatives attending from New Hampshire, Maine, Massachusetts and Connecticut. The original attendants, maid of honor Phyllis Merrill Blake from Bethel and best man Donnie Burns of Tolland, Conn., were present with their spouses.

A three-tier cake specially decorated by Lorraine Piper with fresh flowers was cut by the Tanguays and circulated to their guests. Granddaughter Hayley Tanguay and great-granddaughter Lynde Folsom circulated the guest book for all to sign.

Celia Arlene Brown and Arthur A. Tanguay were married on May 5, 1948 in Gorham, N.H. Their children and spouses, Don and Janet Tanguay of Baltimore, Md., Debbie and Joey Martin of Berlin, N.H., and Donna and Bob Folsom Sr. of Albany, hosted the party. It was a memorable afternoon for a very special couple that was enjoyed by all.

The Willing Workers met Tuesday night to discuss some business. Those present were: Mione Record, Marta Clements, Minna Morgan, Patty Thurlow, Tommy Poland, Andrea Wing, Elaine Wilday, Claribel Poland and Rosalie Poland. We agreed to keep the church as it is and to look into the possibility of having it declared a historical site. We are waiting for the directions to do this.

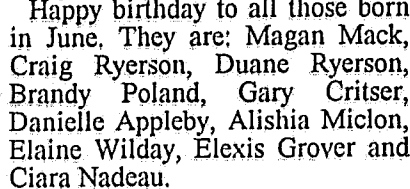

Congratulations to all the high school graduates from this area. Those I have noticed are Matthew Koskela, Bethany Lowe and Danielle Littlehale from Telstar High School. From other area schools are Jenny Record from OHCHS and Wes Smith from Bridgton. My grandson, Doug Wing, graduated from Oxford Hills Comprehensive High School also in June. Much happiness and good luck to all of you in the future. I hope I haven't missed anyone.

Sympathy goes out to the family and friends of James Coffin and also Carroll Thurlow. They will be sadly missed.

The benefit supper for Sheila Verrill, who is very ill, was a great success. Over $3,000 was raised to help her with her expenses. About 400 people attended the supper and bought raffle tickets.

Barry Andrews and Gene Nelson went to Nelson's camp at Wilson's Mills a couple of weeks ago and brought home some nice trout. Thanks, Barry. They were awful good.

Albert and Eleanor Nelson went to their camp at Wilson's Mills this past weekend and only saw one moose on the way home Sunday. Troy Nelson went to camp also and he saw lots and lots of moose Saturday night. I guess he was at the right place at the right time. He went to Rangeley and back after supper.

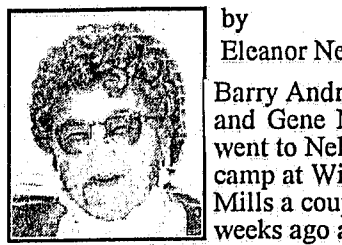

At Umbagog Lake we saw the nicest, cleanest public toilets there. The people who put the building there and designed it and keep it so good are to be commended. I hope people traveling that route appreciate it.

Royce Grant was taken to the Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway over the weekend and then was transferred to the Maine Medical Center in Portland. He is at home now at this writing and has to take it easy for a few days.

Church services will be held in the East Stoneham Congregational Church during June from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Every person should have a woodland he can call his own, a place where he can walk in peace and quietness. Trees are man's good friends at any season, tall oaks, maples, beeches and ashes stand like cathedrals, their branches forming arches above aisles. Moist humus underneath is spongy soft with richness. Always among the evergreens the air is fragrant as the trees murmur to each other. I have often visited places like this and looked across the valley to the mountains, dark blue and green, serene and steadfast against the horizon. These mountains have stood through cycling seasons to know the warmth of summer, the beauty of autumn, the snows of winter and the resurrection of spring.

The pond can be seen here, lovely in June. Dragonflies drift and dart and the heron with beady eyes and darting beak stands watching while the kingfisher, neither pretty nor graceful, is on hand to go "plunk" into the water.

The ducks greet us with families of four or five. When tiny and near they look like strange little things, half downy, half quilled, impertinent, everlastingly hungry, greedy, trying to steal from their neighbor. But they are pretty to watch. Physical happiness is the birthright of wild creatures, and in no other way is it demonstrated as interestingly as learning to fly. They find an ever new world under their wings. First the land, long and wide, with spangles everywhere of summer flowers. Then where adventure waits in the pond, long and vivid blue. Then flights over the foothills hemmed in by the marshes. They always find joy in the feel of their wings.

Later I watched the sun set making the place unearthly with loveliness as it walked solemnly about the sky.

Bethel Outing Club

The Bethel Outing Club will host a potluck supper on Sunday, June 14, from 5-7 p.m. at Ordway Hall, the new building at Gould Academy. About 30 people attended last month's supper and meeting, and there was strong interest in further developing the scope of the club's activities. Anyone interested is welcome to attend.

The purpose of the Bethel Outing Club is to promote nordic skiing as a sport and recreation in the greater Bethel and Western Maine area with particular emphasis on youth development nordic ski programs; to support participants in nordic ski programs; and to support family-oriented outings. For further information, contact Ann Speth at 824-2586 or Kirk Siegel at 824-3436.

From the

Bethel Area C. of C.

Welcome to our newest member, Rite Aid, Dan Trowbridge, manager.

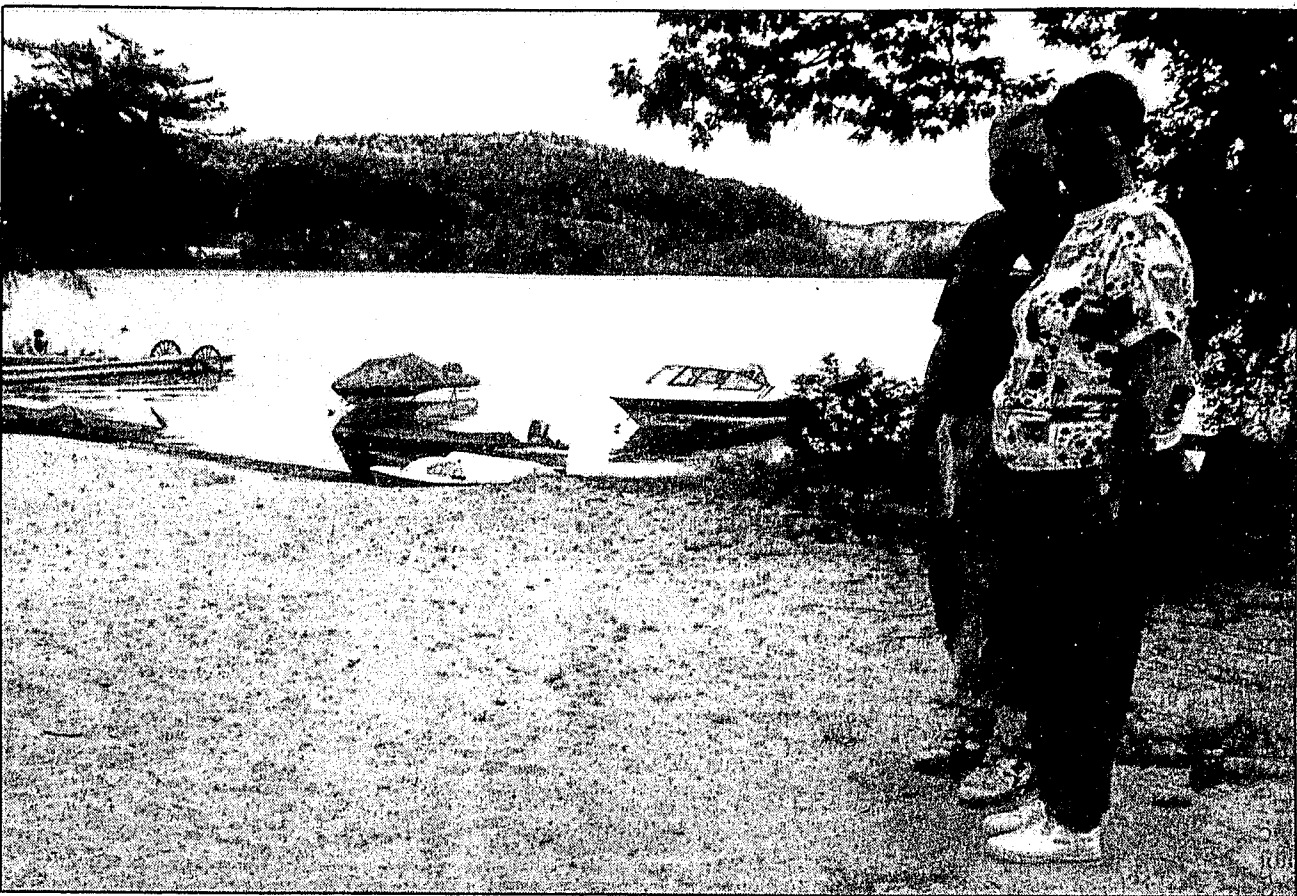

Many thanks to Fred Nolte and Sandra Frye, the new owners of Chapman Inn, for hosting a Business After Hours reception on Tuesday, June 9. It was wonderful to see the many improvements Fred and Sandra have made to the inn. Best wishes to them.

All chamber members and friends are invited to put Tuesday, July 7, on their calendars for the July Business After Hours at the new Sunday River Summer Mountain Adventure Center at the White Cap Base Lodge. You are invited to take a spin on their new BMX bike track, take a ride at their skate park, navigate the climbing wall or slide down through the Tempest Lagoon Water Slides. Hors d'oeuvres and beverages will be served from 5 to 7 p.m.

The chamber would like to extend best wishes to Joyce Small, who recently purchased Skidder's Deli on Main Street, Bethel, as well as member Pat Thurston on her opening of The Victoria, an upscale Bed and Breakfast also on Main Street.

The chamber is planning a new event for Sept. 19 and 20 called Bethel Heritage Days. Event coordinator, Paula Wheeler, has scheduled a meeting for Wednesday, June 17, at noon at the Evans Notch Ranger Station on Route 2, and she is looking for willing volunteers to help on the committee. Some of the events that have been discussed are: a "Discover Tour" of the region featuring a hike-a-thon, tours of the region's wood products businesses, a tour of a dairy farm, a canoe event on the Androscoggin, a crafts fair, woodmen's events and demonstrations, a bike event, an antique car and airplane show, sidewalk sales and more.

Business Profiles--

This week at the

Moses Mason House

Larry Glatz of the Friends of C.A. Stephens was the featured speaker at the June monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society held Thursday evening in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. Glatz's topic for the program was "C.A. Stephens and his Cousins." He briefly described C.A. Stephens' life and his reputation as one of the most famous writers for The Youth's Companion, a popular publication of the latter part of the 19th century and early 20th. Glatz discussed the mixture of fact and fiction present in Stephens' stories and how many of them involved his cousins, some of whom he kept their real names and some he changed. Stephens' house on the end of Norway Lake was also his laboratory where he did, in addition to his fictional writing, pioneering work in the field of geriatrics. His famous house overlooking Norway Lake was eventually demolished, but his name lives on with the hospital in his hometown bearing his name. Glatz grew up in Bridgton, graduated from Bridgton High School, and earned his undergraduate degree from Dartmouth with a M.A. in English from Harvard. He taught school in several locations before coming back to Maine, where he is currently a computer specialist. He has edited two C.A. Stephens books and has been active in the Friends of C.A. Stephens for more than five years.

During the business portion of the meeting, president Walter Hatch announced that the next meeting would be held on July 2 and feature the society's annual picnic. This year it will be held at McLaughlin Gardens at South Paris. All those wishing to attend should bring a picnic lunch and assemble at the Dr. Moses Mason House at 5 p.m. to car pool to South Paris. At the garden we will have our picnic and tour the gardens followed by a talk on the site. The society will provide a beverage for anyone attending.

The "Artifact of the Month" was a microfilm reel containing hundreds of documents relating to the York family of Maine and the family of Col. John York of Bethel. This was the gift of society member Les Whall of Salt Lake City, Utah, and is now available for research in the society's Eva Bean Research Room.

The president called attention to the quilt show at Middle Intervale Meeting House on June 26 and 27.

A reminder was issued that the drawing for Helen Morton's painting to benefit the capital campaign was set for July 4 at the community picnic.

The Fay Taylor Memorial Art Show was still hanging in the meeting room; members and visitors were urged to take a look to see how this year's theme of "Carts, Carriages, Wagons, Sleighs, and Sleds" influenced the entries.

Members and friends were reminded of the annual community picnic on July 4, with the music provided by the Portland Brass Quintet. Tax deductible contributions are needed to make this possible each year.

From the

Andover Alumni Association

The Andover Alumni Association held its annual banquet at the elementary school on Saturday evening, May 30, with more than 125 in attendance for the social hour and baked ham dinner. Special guests were seven members of the Class of 1998 at Telstar and Mountain Valley high schools, five members of the 50-year Class of 1948 from Andover High School and enthusiastic delegations from several other classes which chose to celebrate reunions in 1998. Keyboard selections throughout the evening were provided by Herschel Hall '51.

It was a special night for Hall, as his brother Louis '49 was guest speaker, his aunt Florence (Fonnie) Hall '29 was the oldest graduate present and his youngest brother, Stephen '56, had come the greatest distance, from Conyers, Ga., to attend the banquet. While not singled out, the other Hall brother, Keith '50, a retired educator, was among the group of "school personnel" receiving kudos from the speaker. Hall, a former Roxbury selectman and school board member himself, urged those who'll soon be graduating to build their lives around finding a good job, one in which they'll be happy, and in planning for a home, family and retirement as goals. Spiking his words with humor, Hall said individuals should leave space in their lives for some things he termed "far-fetched," such as the goal of becoming the President of the United States.

On the verge of celebrating his own 50th reunion next year, Hall told the 1948 graduates that old age, to him, has always been 10 years older than he is. With a nod to James Bodwell, Philena (Crocker) Chaisson, Doty (Merrill) Roberts, Roger Swan and Ronald White, he said they certainly didn't look old to him, causing a ripple of laughter from his receptive audience. Roberts serves as co-president of the Andover Alumni Association, while White is its treasurer.

Awards were presented by Gary Meisner from the alumni association for highest rank in math to: freshman, Eric Swasey; sophomore, Jen Fyrborg; junior, Casey Brown; senior, Monica Smith. The alumni association award for the highest rank in senior science was presented to Jessica Durgin. The Allyson Hodsdon Memorial Award for Excellence in American Literature was presented to junior Casey Brown. Jane Rich presented the Andover Friday Club Awards for Desire, Motivation and Faithfulness to: freshman, Darin Morse; sophomore, Forest Fyrborg; junior, Philip Bailey; senior, Karen Thurston. The East Andover Community Club Award for Leadership, School Activities, Cooperation, Character and Scholarship (in that order) was presented by Barbara Meisner to senior Karen Thurston. Christine Mulyanay, the town librarian, presented the Walter Fox Book Awards to the following: grade seven, Katie Swasey; grade eight, Erika Davis; freshman, Lynsey Brown; sophomore, Amy Green; junior, Casey Brown; senior, Jessica Durgin. A memorial book award in the name of Michael Marston was presented to Janie McLean, an outstanding Region Nine student. Gary Meisner presented the Andover Service Circle Scholarship Award to Jessica Durgin. The group also presented seniors with Richard Johnston prints.

Before presenting the John and Eunice Fox Prize Scholarship for Lifelong Civic Contributions to the Town of Andover to Angela Percival, Jane Rich made several announcements pertaining to scholarship aid available. Through fundraising efforts during their high school years matched by a gift from Robert Spidell, the Class of 1998 will share approximately $10,500 this year. College sophomores, juniors and seniors will benefit from funds earned through interest from the Cutting Endowment. Additionally, Rich said, heirs of Jessie and Chester Sweatt have established the Sweatt Family Memorial Fund to benefit those students who select technical schools rather than four-year colleges. Should there be no technical school students applying in any given year, the Sweatt Memorial Funds could be awarded to other students.

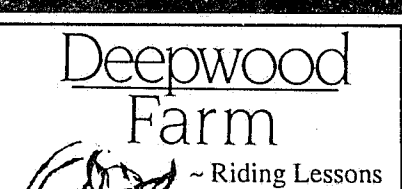

Andover Alumni Association co-president Bette Britt conducted a brief business meeting, seeking a replacement for retiring Vice President Gary Meisner. There were no volunteers. Other evening activities included presentation of Noel Stookey benefit concert tickets for Friday, June 19, to the women who planned and prepared the banquet.

KEEP US IN MIND
It's that time of year when your local Rotary Club must start gathering items for our annual auction. The proceeds of all of our efforts go to support such projects as the Senior Citizen Christmas Dinner, Christmas Food Baskets for the needy, student scholarships, support of the local health facilities, summer camp tuitions, area athletes expenses, disabled individual needs, etc.

If you're cleaning the garage, attic or cellar, let us get rid of those unwanted items for you. Call Al Barth 824-2931 for pick-up.

Help us with your support of our projects. It's a good feeling!

Make it a Great Day!
